Columbia, S. C., August 2.—[Special.]—A suicide under peculiar circumstances is reported from Aiken county. Jim Williams, a drayman for the Vancluse cotton mills, shot himself through the heart, useing an old musket charged with bird shot. He went into his garden, telling his wife he intended to shoot a rabbit, and a few moments later the report of the gun was heard. His son went to look for him and found him dead. Williams had tied the trigger of the gun to a limb of a tree, and pulled the trigger to produce the discharge and death was instantaneous. The act was due to the sufferings from a guilty conscience. Williams had been detected, with some other negroes stealing cotton from the some other negroes stealing cotton from the warehouse of the mill company, and rather than risk further exposure and punishment, he took his life. Negro suicides have been rare in this state.

If the present government at Washington falls to bring about serious complications between the imperial government and the United States, it will perial government and the United States, it will not be because no effort has been put forth to produce so undescribable a result. The truth is statesmen of the calibre of Webster and Clay do not now reach maturity in the southern portion of this continent, Peddling politicians, seekers after notoriety and professors of brag and duplicity appear to have monopolized all the places of importance and are now intent upon forcing issues with a country whose people are r-pidly learning to despise, not fear them. The recent shameful act of piracy committed upon a Canadian vessel in Beiring sea, is absolutely unjustifiable and has only one redeeming feature, namely, that it will bring the whole question under consideration, and the Washington authorities will be obliged to apologize, as well as to recoup the owners of the vessels they interferred with. If this is not done, what is left of Yankee naval effects will probably disappear from more seas than Behrings."

AND HAS A ROYAL TIME FOR A WHILE

But Is Finally Cornered and Makes Confession of the Theft-A Bold Diamond Robbery in Kansas City-Other Crimes.

WHERLING, W. VA., August 2 .- There was a big sensation in the city this morning when it became known that Harry Seybold, a very popular young man, individual book keeper of the bank of Wheeling, had been arrested at his home on South Side about midnight last night for embezzling $27,000 from the bank. On the 10th of April, a package containing $27,000 was deposited in the bank by a prominent business man, and was placed in the vault to be counted after business hours.

After the bank had closed, Mr. List, who had deposited the package, went to get it and found it missing. The absence of the package was kept quiet for a time, being as it appeared evident that some employe had taken it. Har-ry Seybold was found to be spending money very freely, and as his account at the bank had not been touched, and his salary had not been drawn for months,
SUSPICION AT ONCE RESTED ON HIM

The bank officers called Captain B. B. Dovener into the case. Seybold had reported to his friends that he had lately drawn $15,000 in the Iriends that he had lately drawn $15,000 in the Louisiana lottery, Captain. Dovener left for New Orleans and found this to be untrue. It was determined to arrest Seybold on suspicion and at midnight last night the sheriff arrested him at his home. He was taken before Justice Arkle and charged with the theft. At first Seybold denied the charge but after close examination by Dovener.

Seybold turned over the certificates of deposit and real and personal property to the amount of $32,000, which will entirely cover the loss. He was committed to jail without bail, and will be held for trial tomorrow morning. Seybold had a part of the funds deposited under the name of Seybold & Hennig, which led the bank's officials to think that George Hennig, another prominent young man of this city, and an intimate friend of Seybold's, was indirectly connected with the theft. He was promptly arrested and brought before Justice Arkle, when it was learned that Seybold had merely used Hennig's name without authority. Hennig is no way connected with the bank of Wheeling.

A CHAPTER OF HORRORS.

Drownings, Findings of Dead Bodies in the Woods, Etc.

Woods, Etc.

Columbia, S. C., August 2.—[Special.]—
Several deaths from extraordinary causes are reported in different sections of this state.

In Edgefield county a colored boy named Davis was sent on an errand to Trenton, a neighboring village. Having to pass a pond, he there saw some other boys bathing. He concluded to go in, and carelessly waded about the pond till he suddenly got beyond his depth, and sank before help could reach him. His dead body was readily recovered.

A MYSTERIOUS KILLING. While a party of gentlemen were hunting foxes near Montmorenci, in Aiken county, they discovered the dead body of a negro, about a mile from the line of railroad. Upon examination of the body, it was found that a bullet from a pistol or gun had entered the body of the deceased on his side, a little below the left nipple, and a little to the back, and ranging nuwards; it came out at his neck. The the left nipple, and a little to the back, and ranging upwards it came out at his neck. The appearance of the wound was that it had been inflicted several weeks before—five or six. His shirt was bloody and caked with matted blood. On the Saturday previous to the day of finding, he passed some negroes working on the railroad several miles below Montmorenci, and told them he was sick and asked for water. Leaving them, he turned into the Davis bridge road, and did not go far before he lay down under a huge pine go far before he lay down under a huge pine tree, where he was found dead. The ground tree, where he was found dead. The ground for several yards around bore evidence of his having rolled around considerably, it is supposed while he was suffering from delirium brought on by intense fever. From the position of the body as it lay on the ground, he must have been crawling when he sank down in death. The name of the negro is unknown. The impression is that the negro was shot while in the act of stealing, and in trying to escape went out of reach of help.

A WHITE MAN DEOWNED.

James Slogle, a white man, was drowned yesterday in Sugar creek, in Yeak county, where he had been fishing with hook and line. His body was discovered by a party of gentlemen who were seining. The sein caught on some obstruction and on drawing it out the party were horrified to see the dead body hitched to it. The supposition is that Slogle had a convulsion and fell in the creek. He was subject to fits. Some months ago he attempted to cut his own shroat, inflicting an ugly wound, of which, however, he was readily cured.

ugly wound, of which, however, he was readily cared.

FOUND DEAD IN THE WOODS.

The dead body of Jackson Hicklin, a negro boy about 13 years old, was discovered in the woods about two hundred yards from the residence of Mrs. Jane Hefley in York county. He had gone about 8 o'clock with an ax to cut some wood, and about 10 o'clock his dead body, not yet cold, was discovered by a white boy who happened to pass the spot where it lay. The ax lay near the dead body, the handle resting on the breast. There was a hole in the head made by a pistol bullet. A deep mystery surrounds the killing of this boy. He was quiet, industrious and was not known to have an enemy. The tracks of two bare-footed persons, apparently boys, were discovered leading out of a corn patch about a hundred yard from where the body was found. But they were lost after entering a path which passed within about forty yards of the body. There were no evidences of a straggle, and the appearance of the ground showed that the boy had taken one step only after being shot. A gentleman who was at work about three-quarters of a mile distant heard the report of a gun or pistol, but thought nothing specially of it, as it was not an uncommon occurrence in the neighborhood. The boy may have been killed accidentally by some hunter, but no one in the community is known to have been on such a mission that morning or to have had a gun or pistol in thoir possession. such a mission that morning or to have had a gun or pistol in their possession.

Over the Visit of the Emperor of Germany— Welcomed by the Queen. LONDON, August 2.—Brilliant sunshine and London, August 2.—Brilliant sunshine and cool breezes prevailed at Portsmouth this morning. Preparations for the reception of Emperor William of Germany were completed at an early hour. The town was handsomely decorated, and people in holiday attire. An enormous fiotilla of craft, consisting of war ships and private vessels, covered the harbor, while the shore was densely crowded with resoule.

On reaching Cowes, the emperor landed at Trinity pier, where the prince of Wales, who had already landed, bade him welcome. TRADE TOPICS.

The Prospect of Good Crops Having an Effect.

New York, August 2.-R. G. Dun & Co.'s eview of trade for the week says: The country begins to feel the stimulus of good crops. New spring wheat began to arrive at Chi-cago on the first, ten days earlier than last year. The St. Louis corn corner has no effect and an abundant yield is expected and lusiness in all deabundant yield is expected and Insiness in all departments is gaining. The Northwestern Miller estimates the wheat yield at 500,000,000 bushels of excellent quality and the mills at Minnespolis are active with water plenty. St Paul naturally reports an improvement in trade and Milwankee also in all branches. At Omaha the assurance of crops above the average makes business excellent. In the winter wheat regions, the improvement consequent upon a good yield has now been steady for some weeks, though at Kansas City business is still rather quiet.

IN THE IRON REGIONS a distinct increase in demand is felt and here orders for one hundred new locomotives have been placed during the week. The certainty of large traffic also has its effect upon railroad negotiations, which have made progress toward peace.

made progress toward peace.

The fact that under such favoring circumstances the stock market has gained during the week only forty cents of $100 in the average of prices, may be attributed to monetary uncertainties and to the great volume of securities awaiting buyers. For the ill success of the interstate agreement and the relation in western states have inclined many holders to sell, while projects for 50,000 miles of new railroad and for a vast number of industrial trusts have caused an unusual body of new stocks and bonds to be offered, of which best a small part has yet been placed.

MONEY MARKETS of the interior continue generally well supplied. To the general surprise, demands from the interior are not felt here to any extent as yet, and treast perations have only added $100,000 to cash on hand operations have only added $100,000 to cash on hand for the week.

The volume of trade continues to exceed last year's, at New York 12 per cent and outside 12½ per cent, according to clearings through barks. Exports for July from New York appear 14½ per cent larger than last year, with imports 5½ per cent larger, and these figures would point to an excess of about 11,000,000 imports over exports, and yet large offering of bills against products to be moved hereafter presvents apprehension. The prospect is better for a decline of 2½ cents in wheat during the week, though corn, cats and cotton for immediate delivery are fractionally higher. Fork products have all declined a little, and hogs 20 cents per 100 pounds.

THE SPECULATIVE MOVEMENT corn 7,000,000 and of cotton 191,000 bales. But cof iee is three-quarters stronger, with sales of 225,000 bags. In oil only 3,700,000 harrels have been sold, and the price is about one cent lower.

The woolen industry still hesitaes. The prices of wool are generally held up to the average so

LARGE FIRE IN ROME

A BUSINESS BLOCK BADLY DAMAGED BY THE FLAMES.

HEROIC WORK OF THE FIREMEN The Flames Start in Barker & Co.'s Stable, and Rapidly Spread, But Are Under Control—Losses and Insurance. Rome, Ga., August 3.-3 a. m.-[Special.]-Fire broke out about 2 o'clock this morning in the livery stable of Barker & Co., and spread rapidly, in spite of the efforts of the fire de partment, until the entire block on Broad street, from Fourth avenue to Third, appeared to be endangered. The magnificent water system of the city, however, aided the well-directed efforts of the firemen in quelling the flames, which were under control, after consuming the entire stable and the contents of the two buildings adjoining on each side, which were almost totally destroyed. . THE LOSING PARTIES were: Lowenthal & Bro., clothing: J. Brown, clothing; A. W. Hart, shoe manufacturer, and Satterfield & Rawlins, dry goods. The latter succeeded in removing their entire stock, with apparently but slight damage. The magnificent Masonic temple, which adjoins the stables, was damaged but slightly, owing to the protection of a solid fire wall and the well-directed and tireless energy of the fire department. The building is one of the finest in the city.

FOURTEEN HORSES PERISH.

Out of the horses in Barker's stables, numbering sixteen, but two were saved, the remainder being consumed before the eyes of the spectators, who were utterly powerless to aid in their escape, as the interior of the stable was a solid sheet of flame.

The property destroyed, as far as can be learned, is well covered by insurance.

At this hour, 3 a. m., the fire is entirely inder control. It appears from present indications to have been the work of an incendiary.

DELAYED TRAINS.

Railroad Schedules Demoralized-Items Augusta, Ga., Augusta 2.—[Special.]—The heavy rains of the past lew days have demoralized railroad schedules and nearly every train has been late today. The northern train, due here about 9 o'clock, has not yet arrived at midnight. The Georgia fast train, due at 8:15, has not yet arrived. It was delayed by a freight train wreck at Barnett, fifty-three miles from here, which blockaded the track and did some damage to the rolling stock, but nobody was hurt. At Robbins, on the Port Royal road, a freight train was wrecked by the washing out of a culvert, but nobody hurt.

Mules Killed by a Train.

Adams Park, Ga., August 2.—[Special.]— Last night at 10:30 the south-bound passenger train on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad ran over and killed two valua-ble mules belonging to the Phillips Melon comble mules belonging to the Phillips Meion com-pany, of this place. The escape for the train from a tertible run-off was indeed extremely miraculous. The, high rate of speed they were making was no doubt the prime cause of their escape. The bodies of the mules were thrown one on each side of the depot building, where four young men were sleeping and whose escape from destruction was extremely close. IT CAUSES AGONIZING PAIN.

Walter Linnell Tells How It Feels to Be Shocked by Electricity.

From the New York Globe-Democrat.

New York, July 25.—Walter F. Linnell, the New York, July 25.—Walter F. Linnell, the athletic young dry goods salesman who, on July 2, was knocked down and apparently killed by a falling electric light wire belonging to the United States Illuminating company, is at present a badly scarred and maimed patient in St. Vincent's hospital. He would probably prove a thorn in the side of the expert electricians who maintain that contact with wires carred an alternating current of 1000 voits powers. rying an alternating current of 1000 volts power is equivalent to instantaneous and painless

It will be remembered that after Linnell death.

It will be remembered that after Linnell grasped the wire and was thrown to the ground an Italian fruit vendor named Orlando de Ferado severed the wire with an ax, miraculously escaping personal injury, and the presumably dead man, who lay motionless on the pavement, revived after a bucket of water had been thrown over him, and recovered sufficiently to walk up stairs after he had been taken in an ambulance to St. Vincent's hospital.

Linnell's left hand was badly burned and mutilated, and on Tuesday last the doctors, having relinquished hope of saving it, this hand was amputated. The patient stood the operation well, and yesterday he seemed surprisingly cheerful and looked in quite fair health considering the injuries he had sustained. Mr. Linnell is anxious to testify in the Kemmler case, for his experience has impressed him with the idea that an "electrocuted" murderer may not only suffer untold agonies without giving a sign of his suffering, but may even be buried alive.

"About 8 o'clock in the evening of July 2." he said, "I was seated in a restaurant at No. 127 Eighth street when I noticed a flash of without giving a sign of his suffering, out may even be buried alive.

"Abont 8 o'clock in the evening of July 2," he said, "I was seated in a restaurant at No. 127 Eighth street when I noticed a flash of very brilliant light over the door-way. I put on my hat and went out to investigate. There are a few steps down to the sidewalk, and as I was descending them something struck the brim of my hat. I learned afterward that it was the broken end of an electric light wire. Instantly I felt as if my head was being driven down through my shoulders. The sensation was auonizing in the extreme. Then I became conscious that I was lying on the pavement with the wire between the finger and thumb of my left hand, My father, who was in the restaurant, and who rushed out when he saw me knocked down, tells me that the wire slipped off my hat into my hands, but I did not feel any pain from my hands, and was not aware that they were slowly burning away. There was all over my body a succession of shocks that seemed to be tearing me to pieces. My arms and shoulders seemed especially affected by it, and blue streaks kept flashing before my eyes, resembling an electric light when it flickers and dies out for a moment. I am naturally strong and healthy; there is nothing the matter with my heart, and I have plenty of will-power, but I felt that I could not stand the strain a minute longer. My muscles and nerves were all¶ drawn up to the highest tension. I exerted all my will-power in trying to resist and endure the agony, and then suddenly it seemed to fade away, and everything was dark and quiet. Before that, however, I had heard all that was going on around me. I heard my father's exclamations; he was struggling like a crazy man to get at me, me. I heard my father's exclamations; he was struggling like a crazy man to get at me, but was held back, for I heard a man say: 'It's no use going near him; he is dead, and it's sure death to touch him.' I heard others make similar remarks. That increased my make similar remarks. That increased my agony, if anything could, for I seemed to lealize that people thought me dead and that they would not dare to relieve me. The agony was two intense to think about anything else, though I believe a thought as to what it would be like to be dead did not cross my mind. I gave up hope of life, and when the relief came, caused really by the Italian's ax, I thought that must be death. Then I felt copsciousness for a moment, but Italian's ax, I thought that must be death. Then I felt consciousness for a moment, but regained it when they threw water over me, and managed to raise myself on my elbow. Strangely enough, I did not suffer much from my burned hands or arms for three or four days, but then the electricity seemed to be coming out. My limbs all twitched, and I felt as if I had been poundered all over with a club."

NEWARK, N. J., August 2.—The dangerou overflow of water that lodged in the cellars and basements of Price street, was pumped out this morning by engines of the fire department, and the city breathes freer over the knowledge that an epidemic has been averted. The river was badly swellen last night, but the water has now subsided.

A drowning accident is reported from Rahway. William Goralka, aged eleven, was playing on the farmers' dock yesterday, when he tumbled overboard. The current was running like a mill race and quickly swept the unfortunate lad out of sight. He could swim, but the rushing water was too much for him. The damage by the recent storm in Essex county is estimated at a half million dollars. No fears of further damage are entertained.

Then I felt consciousness for a moment, but regained it when they threw water over me, and managed to raise myself on my elbow. Strangely enough, I did not suffer much from my burned hands or arms for three or four days, but then the electricity seemed to be coming out. My limbs all twitched, and I felt as if I had been poundered all over with, a club."

Mr. Linnell's left hand was horribly burned. Only the bones and some charred flesh were left of the thumb and forefinger, while the back of the hands was split open to the bone. Two fingers of his right hand were burned to the bone and the flesh on the back was split, while there are burned streaks and patches all up his arm, although his clothing was not even singed. his father, who at first attempted to remove the wires with an umbrella, was hurled back a dozen feet by the powerful corrent.

It was raining that evening, and the wet pavement and the prostrate man's damp clothing proved an excellent conductor, which makes his escape from death all the more wonderful. The strength of the current over the broken wire was from 1,300 to 1,500 volts, according to the statement of the United States Illuminating company. Mr. Linnell, Sr., secured a piece of the wire after it had been severed and found the cotton insulation rotted and worn so that it was practically a naked

The day has passed and the list of idle works has been increased by the addition of only three works. As was expected the meeting at Trotter last night had the effect of changing the decision of the men. They joined the striker's forces this morning.

"My little boy had large serofulous ulcers on his neck and throat from which he suffered terribly. Two physicians attended him, but he grew continually worse under their care, and everybody expected he would die. I had heard of the remarkable cures effected by Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and decided to have my boy try it. Shortly after he began to take this medicine, the ulcers commenced healing, and, after using several bottles, he was entirely cured. He is now as healthy and strong as any boy of his age." — William F. Dougherty, Hampton, Va.

Hampton, Va.

"In May last, my youngest child, fourteen months old, began to have sores gather on its head and body. We applied various simple remedies without avail. The sores increased in number and discharged copiously. A physician was called, but the sores continued to multiply until in a few months they nearly covered the child's head and body. At last we began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In a few days a marked change for the better was manifest. The sores assumed a more healthy condition, the discharges were gradually diminished, and finally ceased altogether. The child is livelier, its skin is fresher, and its appetite better than we have observed for months."—Frank M. Griffin, Long Point, Texas.

Bleckley, C. J.—1. In its principal elements and characteristics, this case is ruled by Merck vs. American Freehold, etc. Co., 79 Ga., 213.

2. Where the money actually lent belonged to none of the middle men engaged in procuring the loan, that the notes and mortgage were made payable to one of them who shared in the commissions paid by the borrower will not infect the loan with usury, the lender knowing nothing touching the payment or agreement to pay commissions, and having acted in person in contracting to make the loan, fixing the terms thereof and accepting the security, and having parted with the full amount of the loan and delivered the money to one of the middle men engaged in procuring it.

In such case, the fact that one of the mid-dle men used his own money in turning over the net proceeds of the loan to the borrower, the same being done when the lender's money was in the lands of another middle man at a distant point, will not infect the loan with usury by reason of the commissions retained by or paid to the middle men in pursuance of the contract of the lender made with one of them at the time of engaging him to procure the loan. The substitution of his money in place of that of the lender was only a mode and means of exchange.

3. That one of the middlemen, in turning over the net proceeds of the loan to the borrower, reserved for his own benefit a small sum to cover exchange, the money actually lent being at a distance from the point of settlement, would not render the loan uturious.

Bleckley, C. J.—1. According to Powell vs.

Bleckley, C. J.—l. According to Powell ys. Watts, 72 Georgia, 770, in a statutory claim case the claimant is a competent witness in his own behalf to prove transactions between himself and the defendant in fi. fa., though the latter be dead.

2. Declarations and tax returns made by the vendee when out of possession, and not in the presence of the vender, are inadmissible at the instance of the vender, are evidence to subject the lay lead to receive the property of the vendee, under a judgment against him, no matter whether the judgment creditor gave credit on the faith of the property so held or not. The purchaser at sheriff's sale would acquire the right to receive the money due on the secured debt, as in the ordinary case of purchase money where bond for titles is outstanding. Redemption of the land would be accomplished by paying to him what would otherwise be payable to the original vender. If the deed was made to defraud the vender's creditors as well as to secure a debt, the land to the extent of its whole value would be subject to judgments against the vendee, as against a statutory claim interposed by the vender himself.

4. An absolute deed of conveyance containing a warranty of title, and purporting to be made on a valuable consideration, is valid and binding between the parties, though made for the purpose of defrauding creditors. The

The parties being in pari delicto, and the convey-ance being an executed contract, the vendor parties being in part delicto, and the convey-ance being an executed contract, the vendor cannot impeach it as a muniment of title in the vendee, whether possession of the land has been delivered under it or not, nor whether the vendee really paid the recited purchase money or not. The vendor is estopped. But an executory contract by the vendee, such as a bond for titles to reconvey to the vendor, may, when sought to be enforced, be impeached by the vendee, or even by his creditors, if shown to be directly connected with the fraudulent the vendee, or even by his creditors, if shown to be directly connected with the fraudulent scheme in which the deed originated. For the purpose of resisting the enforcement of an executory part of the fraudulent scheme, the whole scheme is open to inquiry.

5. Dalivery of a deed is sufficiently proved by being recorded, and by the maker of it being in possession of a written contract signed by the vendee stipulating for a reconveyance of the premises to the vendor.

THE TRAMPS' STORY. THREE STRANGERS WANDER INTO

nd Tell of Their Bad Treatment by Immigration Agents—Something About the Jones Melon—Other Georgia Gossip.

The other day three hardy-looking foreign ramped to Albany. They could not speak a word of English. They had pleasant faces and were nest a appearance. They convened in German which anguage they spoke fluently. They told a pitiful tory of disappointed hopes. Their tale is not with one hundred and twenty two other ins, they were transported from New York to work upon the Alabama Midland railroad. They to work upon the Alabama Midland raffroad. They were promised $1.50 per day and board. Upon reaching their destination, they were dumped out in the woods without a particle of shelter—not even a fout being furnished them. They were expected to sleep like cattle in the woods, and the rations supplied them were meal and bacon, neither of which they could cat. The result was that they scattered over the country, leaving their unpromising job with disgust. One of the trio finding their way penniless, to Albany was a blacksmith, another a wood-worker.

Mr. L. S. Plonsky, whose generoas heart was touched with sympathy for the unfortunates, interested himself in their behalf, and has been endeavoring to secure employment and place them in communication with relatives at the north who Emigration or employment agents in the large cities, for the few dollars that they make by higher out, these neople, drive that they make by hiring out these people, drive them to such straits as these."

Colonel Reuben Jones, of Baker county, is smuch exercised over the fact that an improvement on the celebrated Jones melon is claimed at Albany. It seems that Mr. W. H. Newsome, son-in-law of It seems that Mr. W. H. Newsome, son in-law of the colonel, who is a large melon grower, managed to hybridize the Jones melon by planting them near the rattlesnake and other varieties. The re-sult is a melon which it is claimed is an improve-ment upon the present stock, being different in shape not standing upon end, but of better contour and being striped, while the Jones melon is more nearly a solid green. The meat, it is said, is firmer and of more luscious flavor. Dr. Hels-man was delighted with this fruit, planted it exten-sively, said that it was preferred to the Jones by those who tested the two. He named it the New-some, or improved Jones melon.

Colonel Jones has sent up three specimen corone romes has sent up three specimen melons. One large and fully ripe—a splendid sample of the famous fruit that bears his name. Another was not fully ripe, and with them was a young baby melon, oblong in shape and intensely striped. These were all consigned to his friend, Mr. B. L. Weston, of Albany. With the melons came a letter in which Colonal Lucas ages as the sample in that the Lorence and the sample in that the Lorence and the sample is that the Lorence as the sample is that the Lorence and the sample is that the Lorence are the sample in the lorence are the sample in the s Albany. With the melons came a letter in which Colonel Jones goes on to explain that the Jones melon is striped. The stripes showing plainly on the young fruit, being still clearly perceptible on the grown but not fully ripened fruit, and still obtained in the property of the percentage of the perce servable upon the molon in its perfection, as is shown by the specimens he sent up. He thinks the Newsome is the same as the Jones melon, and

"The Albanians are always trying to get ahead on

Man wants but little here below,
And is not hard to please;
But every woman that I know

Such are the Albanians. I do not mind it, for the Albany people are my friends; but they must not try to capture and appropriate the Jones melon.

It is said that Jake Young, the Tifton outlaw, is hiding in the dense swamps of the Alapaha river, in the fastnesses of which it will be very difficult to capture him. Here he is fed by his friends. The other day two detec-tives were within twelve feet of him. He saw them and was near enough to hear them whispering, but they failed to see him, though they were after him at the time. This story was told by Young to one of his friends. An old negro, who was deer hunting, while driving through the swamps saw the outlaw asleep, under a tree. By his side was a musket and a fife. Within his belt were two pistols, while another revolver was clinched in the hand of the sleeper. The negro gave one affrighted look and then took to his heels and sped like the wind away from the snorting bandit and his fire arms. He has not hunted in the Alapaha swamps since. It is claimed by some of the people living in that vicinity that no vigorous effort has ever been made to capture him. The detectives and others are holding off awaiting a larger reward, which they hope will be offered for his arrest. they failed to see him, though they were after him

The Buena Vista Argus says that a few nights ago a tramp made application to Mr. Jake Harrell for a night's lodging, and after some hesitation the tramp was allowed to take a room. The covered the their he followed the tramp, arrested and brought him to town for trial on the charge of Vagrancy. Two young lawyers were retained in his defense. Mr. Harrell employed no lawyer to prosecute the case, but simply made a statement of the facts in the case to the court, and upon that statement the prisoner was remanded to jail in default of bond. Now comes the interesting part of fault of bond. Now comes the interesting part of this story. One of the young attorneys attempted to prove that the prisoner had means and was not a tramp, and in order to make this defense he loaned the tramp a quarter to exhibit to the court in making his statement. After making eloquent speeches in behalf of the man, the tramp was sent to jail. The young limb of the law called on the tramp in jail for the return of the quarter, but he refused to give it up, claiming it as his individual assets.

Mrs. McGruder, who lives at Sulphur Springs, over in Meriwether county, has a four acre cotton patch that has been most thoroughly cultivated this year in a most peculiar manner. She has three geese that has the run of the patch all the year, and they have kept the patch free from the grass. In the spring she owned a goat, which also had the run of the patch, and he ate the cotton down to a "stand" about as well as a hoe hand could have done it, and as soon as he finished the job he laid down and died. So the only expense the patch has been for cultivating it was the ploughing, as not

It is thought that petroleum exists on Mr. Hambright's place, three miles from Tunnel Hill. On this place is a bed of rock, similar in the character of its formation to that of the petroleum regions of Pennsylvania. When this rock is broken a strong and decided odor of crude petroleum is emitted. Several parties, who have visited the locality and made investigations, are inclined to believe that if a shaft were sunk crude petroleum would be found there in abundance.

It is stated on very reliable authority that the sale of the Clapp's factory property in Colum-bus, including about 300 acres of land, and the Cook bus, including about 300 acres of land, and the Cook property of about 300 acres more has been practically effected, and that the Roston syndicate of millionaires are now the owners of both properties. This is one of the biggest deals ever recorded in the history of Columbus, and advantages arising therefrom are simply incalculable. The neighborhood of the factory will shortly be a prosperous and thriving town. It is understood that a dummy line will be run up Second avenue from Clegg's factory to Clapp's. A strong iron bridge will be built across the branch and the whole route will be considerably improved. From Clapp's factory the line will be run east to Beallwood and thence south to Rose Hill. The exact details of the line, however, have not been agreed on yet.

The Manufacturers' Record, of Baltimore has secured the services of Mr. E. P. Speer, of Georgia, who will represent the paper as a special correspondent in parts of the south. His attention will be given for some time to Georgia. He will visit different towns in the state and tell the readers of different towns in the state and tell the readers of the Manufacturers' Record what their condition and opportunities are, their industrial capabilities, and their various advantages and disadvantages. Mr. Speer is one of the most widely known and highly regarded newspaper men in his native state, and his friends, as well as other friends of Georgia, will be glad to know that he has entered upon the work of making known to the world, through the columns of the Manufacturers' Record, the resources and possibilities and development of the state. His ready and vigorous pen will do effective work in promoting the advancement of the section with which he has been all his life identified.

The directors of the public library held their regular monthly meeting tonight. The concrete will be laid on account of the condition of the earth, which made a firm foundation without the concrete impossible.

The late O. D. Edwards had a paid up policy of $2,878 in the Ætna Life Insurance company, payable to his wife. On August 6, 1887, he borrowed through A. K. Brocklesby, a broker of Hartford, Ky., $400 on a note of twelve months, signed by himself and by Mrs. Edwards, and assigned the policy as collateral security. Edwards died last week. On Wednesday Herman A. Tyler, of Hartford, claiming to be general agent of the Equitable Life Assurance society, came to Macon and Wednesday Herman A. Tyler, of Hartford, claiming to be general agent of the Equitable Life Assurance society, came to Macon and claimed to be the absolute owner of the Edwards nolicy, as Edwards had failed to pay the interest. Despite this assertion he generously (?) offered to compromise with Mrs. Edwards for $1,300 cash, if she would sign away her entire interest in the policy. At the suggestion of Mr. J. H. Birch, Mrs. Edwards consulted Judge Matt Freeman, and he told her to accept no compromise until he talked with Tyler. A. conference was appointed with Tyler last night at the Hotel Lanier, to which Mr. N. R. Winship, southern manager of the Ætna, was invited. When Tyler saw Winship he wilted, pressed his claim no further, and left town in ten minutes. The Ætna home office telegraphed Winship today as follows: "Do not advise Edwards's widow to sell to any one." Winship thinks Tyler is a fraud and swindler. He says he will send to Hartford the proofs of death of Edwards, and that Mrs. Edward will be paid the policy in full, for the $400 borrowed on the policy is made payable to her.

Judging from the discourses given thus far from abroad.

Judging from the discourses given thus far the belief of this people embodies some of the distinctive features of all the evangelistic denominations. In the matter of conversion and the operation of the holy spirit, they agree with the Methodist doctrine but they hold to immersion in harmony with the Baptists. That which prominently distinguishes them from nearly all denominations, is the observance of Saturday, the seventh day of the week, as the Sabbath instead of Sauday, the first day of the week, in which they follow the literal rendering of the fourth commandment of the decalogue which says "the seventh day is the Sabbath." Their form of church government is democratic, each church electing its own officers, and having control of its own affairs. Among the discourses of interest already presented, was one in which the United States government was shown in prophecy, and the speaker located this government by the symbol of the beast with two horns in the thirteenth chapter of Revelation. All the financial and industrial advantages of the nation were fully shown, and then the reverend gentleman said that the part this government would soon act in religious matters was sure to prove a source of anxiety to those who would be faithful to the commandments of God. He went on to show that there is already in this country an organization called the National Reform association, whose chief object is to change the constitution of the United States that it may contain the name of God and of Christ, and to place all Christian laws, institutions, and contain the name of God and of Christ, and to place all Christian laws, institutions, and usages of our government on an undoniable legal basis in the fundamental law of the land. This association, he said, has already secured the influence of some of the leading religious men of the nation, who have formed an alliance with the Women's Christian Temperance union, as well as the American Sabbath union, to secure a national Sunday law. A bill embodying this demand was presented before the last congress by Senator Blair, of New Hampshire, which caused no little discussion in religious circles. Four days after the presentation of this Sunday rest bill, Mr. Blair presented a joint resolution in the presented a joint resolution in the

after the presented a joint resolution in the United States senate proposing an amendment to the constitution of the United States requiring all children between the ages of six and sixteen years to be taught the principles of the Christian religion in the public schools. Should such a bill actually become a law it would require the infidel as well as the Christian to educate his children in the tenets of the Christian religion. Further, it would require the Jew, who has no faith whatever in the author of the Christian religion, to educate his children in that which he deems rank heresy. In other words it would impose a tax upon the atheist, infidel, Jew, and all others opposed to the Christian religion, for the pur pose of teaching dogmas in which they have no faith, or, in other words, to contribute money for the overthrow of their own religious convictions. This would be but to turn backward the car of progress in this country, and bring about a union of the civil and ecclesiastical power. The speaker maintained that no government had the right to legislate upon a man's religion, so long as it does not lead him to commit an uncivil act. He also contended that the prophecy alluded to embodied a warning against this premeditated act of religious enthusiasts, and that the present attitude of this government is in direct fulfillment of the prophecy to which he called attention, which, if persisted in, will surely bring hardship and trial upon those who conscientiously carry out their convictions of duty. This theme is under consideration at the present writing, and is presented in a way to make it very interesting to the minds of all the people. The meetings are to continue until next Tuesday morning.

SOME HARD BLOWS Hon. Seaborn Wright Gives Andy Ray Black Lip. From the Rome, Ga., Tribune.

Yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock Hon. seaborn W. Wright was standing in the front door of the prohibition headquarters convers

He had just returned from dinner and thought he would walk over to the headquarters for a few minutes and then go over to his office, just across the street.

Andy Ray, the turbulent leader of the colored anti-prohibitionists, was standing on the corner, just to the right of the door, talking to a small crowd of negroes.

At this point the Tribune takes up the story from hestowlers from bystanders.

Observing Mr. Wright standing in the door Ray took oceasion to use some very insulting language and took particular pains to speak in loud enough tones to attract Mr. Wright's at-

Ray remarked that every man who voted the prohibition ticket was a d—n thief, and that Seab Wright was a d—n thief, etc.

Mr. Wright tried to take the first remark, but when a few minutes later, Ray applied the but when a few minutes later. Ray struck at Mr. Wright but missed him. Just then two other negroes, Hayes Thomas and Jim Hagan, ran up and told Ray to stand his ground and not move an inch from "the d—n white rascal."

SUNDAY SCHOOL CHILDREN. A Big Display in Wilkes-The Speakers of

Washington, Ga., August 2. - [Special.]-Washington, Ga., Angust 2.—[Special.]—
The Wilkes county Methodists had a grand Sunday school rally here Wednesday. They gave a general invitation to Christians, so the crowd was not at all of a single color. The Rev. Dr. Bounds, editor of the St. Louis Chris Ian Advocate, who came here and married one of the best women in Washington, Miss Hattie Barnett, closed the exercises with a benediction.

A Washington lady who was present, made the gathering an opportunity to get signatures of country ladies to a petition of women in favor of Mr. Atkinson's bill for an industrial school. She says, no argument or urging was needed. I was astonished to find how all the ladies from the remotest paris of the country had already heard of the Mississippi Industrial college for women, and were desirous to see such a school in Georgia. They came up and signed as soon as they heard the petition was on the grounds, the girls ought to have it, since the boys have a Technological. "I am convinced," said the lady, "from this day's effort that the legislature could not pass any bill for education which would be so universally popular as a bill for an Industrial school for women." THEY MEET AGAIN.

BROTHERS SEPARATED FROM EACH OTHER FIFTEEN YEARS.

The Two Eldest Born on Gibraltar - Become Sallors at Fifteen and Thirteen-Youngest

Born at Alexandria. From the Brunswick, Ga , Times.

A few nights ago a Times reporter witnessed scene that brought tears to the eyes of strong men. It was the meeting of three brothers, two of whom had been separated from the other for fifteen years. So intensely interest-ing was the event that the reporter approached the happy trie and obtained a short account of their lives.

The eldest of the three acted as spokesman, and it was with great emotion that he thus re plied to the reporter:

"We three are brothers. The two eldest of pa were born on the Rock of Gibraltar, where my parents lived for a number of years. Our home on Gibraltar was afterward exchanged for one in Alexandria, Egypt, and, there it was, the youngest in his group first opened his eyes to youngest in his group hist opened also yet the light of heaven. In Alexandria we spent the golden hours of our youth. Father was captain of a Spanish bark, and seldom did he captain of a Spanish bark, and seldom did he have an opportunity of being at home. At an early age we began to manifest some desire to go to sea, and well can I remember how poor mother remonstrated and plead with us that we should banish such inclinations from our minds. Ah, too well do I remember how she urged us to follow some other avocation, saying at the time: 'Since your father began his life as a sailor I have had no pleasure save in my boys, and now it seems that they too must go.' Soon after this my that they too must go.' Soon after this my father returned from a voyage of nearly eighteen months, and when mother told him that we were thinking of going to sea, he too, attempted to dissuade us from the undertakattempted to dissuade us from the undertaking. He depicted in the most thrilling manner the dangers and perils attending a life at sea; he reminded us of the toils and hardships incumbent on a sailor. Finding all this of no avail, he forbade our leaving home, at the same time threatening us with the severest punishment in case we disobeyed him. At the time of which I speak I was but fifteen, while the next eldest was thirteen. while the next eldest was thirteen.

"He and I, in spite of all that had been said, determined to carry out our original designs. We kept quiet, however, until father was We kept quiet, however, until father was called away again. One night after father had been away for a little more than a week, brother and I stole noiselessly out of the house and hurrled down to the harbor. Arrangements had already been made with the captain of a Norwegian bark and we went aboard content to do whatever the captain might demand: At an early hour in the morning the bark set sail, and as we looked back in the direction of the old home where a mother and a vouncer brother were sweetly slumbering. unrection of the old home where a mother and a younger brother were sweetly slumbering, unconscious of the step we had taken, tears bedimmed our eyes and vain would we have recalled the past few hours; but the step had been taken; the bark was now swiftly speeding before the wind, and the only contentment we found was in work. We soon grew fond of our employment, and by our careful attention to duty, won the esteem and confidence of the captain. As we grow elder, we were appointed to better positions. Five long years we spent captain. As we grew elder, we were appointed to better positions. Five long years we spent aboard this bark. Brother and I accumulated some money and we were contemplating a return home, when a circumstance occurred that entirely changed our plan. Our captain was suddenly taken very ill and, despite all that could be done for him, he grew rapidly worse, and within a week from the beginning of the attack, he breathrd out his existence. Just before dying, however, he made his will, bequeathing to me and my brother the bark, together with a vast amount of money. After burying the dead body of the lamented captain, I assumed command of the vessel then on the way to dead body of the lamented captain, I assumed command of the vessel then on the way to Panama. We reached that place in the course of three weeks, and having deposited our cargo again set sail. This time, however, we were on a different voyage from any heretofore made. Brother and I had not seen any member of our family for six years and we were now on our way to Alexandria. It was some weeks before we reached our destination. On arrival, brother and I hastened to the old home, but our loved ones were not to be found. A neighbor informed us that they had not been in Alexandria.

arrival, brother and I hastened to the sold home, but our loved ones were not to be found. A neighbor informed us that they had not been in Alexandria for at least three years. With heavy hearts we returned to our vessel and, on the following day, bade adieu to the spot of our youth. During the nine years that followed nothing was heard of our parents or the younger brother, and we had begun to think that they were no more. Through the kindness of the Creator, however, we have been permitted to look on our long lost ness of the Creator, however, we have been permitted to look on our long lost brother tonight. Fifteen years have elapsed since last we saw him, then a boy of 7, and although this meeting makes our hearts happy, yet with this feeling of happiness comes one of awful sadness. This brother tells us that the father and mother have been dead for more than eight years."

Here the speaker was so filled with emotion that he could say no more, and as the three brothers locked arms and walked away, the reporter could not suppress the tears that came

The child is said to be a pretty, bright babe, and we guess some kind-hearted family will adopt the little waif.

A Sensible Northerner.

Mr. Charles Dudley Warner is a fair-minded northerner who is endeavoring to understand southern problems by studying them on the spot. He has traveled through the south by rail and on horseback. He has sojourned in our cities and on the plan-tations. He has mingled with all classes of our people.

Under similar circumstances some men would talk very glibly about the questions of the hour, and proceed to lay down the law. But Mr. Warner is different. He is not afraid to admit his inability to suggest a remedy for every evil. In his recent ad-dress before the University of the South, at Sewance, he discussed the race problem. He said very frankly that from every point of view it seemed to him insolvable. The constitution left it to the action of the individual states. Outsiders, said Mr. Warner, have no business with it. They should be impartial and patient. The matter should not be used for private ambition or party ends.

In conclusion Mr. Warner said that he did not know what to say, what advice to give. He believed that the government had done wrong in inflicting universal suffrage upon the country, but he thought that it might be made less dangerous with an educational qualification as a safeguard.

The speaker would have turned his back on the traditions of New England if he had ignored education and an educational qualification for our voters. Whenever there is any trouble anywhere-lawlessness, poverty, or even a superstitious craze—the average New Englander suggests education as the remedy. Naturally, he imagines that it will aid in the adjustment of the race

Northern men are full of this sort of talk because it has been dinned into their ears from infancy. They have heard so much of it that they believe it. They are so much under its influence that they fail to see what others see very plainly. They do not see that education has not prevented the growth of communism in their own section, and that it has not checked such religious insanity at we find developed in the cultured converts to Buddhism, the dupes of the western false Christ, and the believers in Christian science. They do not realize even now that the anarchists are strongest in our states where we have compulsory edncation, and that their leaders are educated

Education does not make men peaceable and law-abiding. It does not make them honest. It does not make them orthodox in religion. It does not make them believe in sound political doctrines. At least it has not done so in Massachusetts, New York and Illinois, three states where education is compulsory. Why, then, should anybody take it for granted that it will solve the race problem? To do Mr. Warner justice, he does not have very strong faith in his remedy. He merely suggests it as an experiment. And he honestly admits that he can't understand the race problem, and does not know what to say. We commend this scholarly New Englander's speech, and especially his line of thought, to Judge Tourgee, Mr. Cable and other wild reformers who are confident of their ability to revolutionize human nature with a few free schools and a bundle of

A Rumor Corrected.

The New York World recently stated on the authority of a rumor, that no doubt had its origin in the editorial rooms of that paper, that a weekly newspaper was shortly to be started in Washington City in the interest of Mr. William C. Whitney as a candidate for the presidential nomination by the democratic party.

That there was ever any ground for such a rumor, no one could possibly believe. There has never before been a hint that ex-Secretary Whitney is employing the arts of the small politician. His record in the Cleveland administration speaks for itself. In that collection of democrats he was easily first, so far as executive ability was concerned, and it was natural that he should make an impression on the public at Consequently, there is no reason why he should deny the silly rumor promulgated by the World. Naturally, however, he is sensi tive about such things, and he announces with all the promptness that is necessary, that the World's intimation is absolutely without foundation, and that he is not, and will not be, a candidate for the nomination to the presidency, or any other office.

This ought to settle the matter so far as Mr. Whitney is concerned, but it will not by any means settle matters so far as other prominent democrats are concerned. The "rumor editor" of the esteemed World may be depended on to draw a card or a telegram from every conscientious person

mond, of Washington city, believes in Dr. Brown-Sequard's alleged discovery of the elixir of life. Dr. Hammond claims that he has made some very satisfactory experiments. Instead of compounding a mixture of some of the vital organs of guinea pigs and dogs, after the manner of Brown-Sequard, our Washington doctor distilled an essence from the vital organs of a lamb. He seected a feeble old man and administered his elixir by means of a hypodermic injection. The patient immediately gave signs of returning vitality, and in the course of a few days was much younger and stronger apparently than he was before being

There is an easy way in which Dr. Hammohd can convince the public that there is omething in this discovery. He is an old man himself, and his strength is failing Let him try his elixir, and stand up before the world in his renewed bloom of youth.

Such a test would silence the doubters. But why rely upon pigs, dogs and lambe for this wonderful elixir? Why not try animals noted for their tenacious hold upor life? And in this connection what is the matter with cats? If there is anything in the doctor's theory he should submit to a test. Lot him take the concentrated essence of a Thomas cat and shoot it under his skin, and then let nature cut her caper.

Now is the time for Dr. Hammond to prove his devotion to science.

Fun in America.

The New York Ledger, which is the vehicle for some of the most stupefying literature that this generation has to deal with, remarks that "fun in all its phases is more popular in this country than in any other in Christendom," and it goes on to remark that our national aspect, which is thought by foreigners to be grave and sedate, is exceedingly deceptive.

Our gravity, according to Robert Bonner's sons (and his daughters, too, for ought we know) is only skin deep, and the same authority states that half a dozen artificial negroes in grotesque garbs and by the aid of preposterous gestures "can make a great crowd of us roar for an hour together.'

This is not so very strange after all. It is natural that the most serious and practical nation on earth should be the most humorous. So far as America is concerned neither gayety nor levity is at the bottom of the national life. The fun that the people most enjoy runs in the direction of humor. rather than in the direction of wit. Our fun is good-natured, and even that which takes the shape of satire is not bitter. Our jokers proceed about their business with a kindly twinkle in their eyes and with a purpose that is at once genial and sincere, not to say serious.

As a matter of fact, the line that divides laughter and tears is such an obscure one that neither literary critic nor physiologist has been able to define it clearly. The most melancholy natures are those in which the humorous propensity is most thoroughly developed, and the esteemed foreigners who mark our gravity and comment on it are not far wrong. It is a superficial view, however, which regards this gravity as a serious national trait. It is a national trait, it is true, but it is accompanied by another trait that is equally important—the faculty of producing humor and enjoying it.

Truly, we are a great nation. We have our little peculiarities. We not only cry when we feel like it, but we laugh as welland native or foreign shams must go by on their tiptoes if they don't want to get hit.

An Object of Sympathy. A correspondent of the Fort Worth Gazette mentions a sad case at Cleburne, Texas.

It seems that a Mrs. Hart, in the course of a lively debate with her husband, attempted to emphasize one of her remarks by airly tossing a pair of sheep shears in his direction. The lady's aim was fatally accurate. The shears struck Mr. Hart on the thigh, severing the femoral artery, and causing him to instantly bleed to death.

The Gazette correspondent states that general sympathy is expressed for Mrs. Hart, and that when the court fixed her bond at $2,000, the citizens made it up in twenty minutes. Mrs. Hart is indeed fortunate in having neighbors whose tender hearts and activ sympathies are so easily touched and brought into play. In some communities she might have had a hard road to travel.

Imprisonment for Debt.

The state of New York, that has in its borders the commercial metropolis of the country, is supposed to be civilized, but in that state a person can still be imprisoned

In this day and time this is a very fine showing to make. In 1846, or thereabouts -sooner or later, as the case may be-the Georgia legislature passed the poor debtor's act, saving to the wife the bedding, the cooking utensils and the other necessities of the household.

Later, the law was extended and improved, and in this day and time no Georgian can be imprisoned for debt on any technicality. We advise the great state of New York to follow the example of the empire state of the south in this matter. The creditor is helped rather than hurt by the situation, and the poor debtor is protected on every side. Chautaugua Today and Tonight.

THE CHICAGO INTER-OCEAN pitches into our board of education because it emphatically ex-pressed its disapproval of a recent speech made by one Professor L. M. Hershaw, a colored school teacher. Must we again remind our esteemed con-temporary that we are managing our own local affairs down this way?

IN NEW YORK POOR people are imprisoned for debt. Illinois, too, is just as barbarous, if the following from the Chicago Herald is true: "A delicate woman has been in the county jail. The offense which consigned her to a dungeon was an indebtedness to some Shylock of a sum less than thirty dollars. She had a family of small children who, it is said, needed their mother. It is also who, it is said, needed their mother. It is also stated that she was a woman of not robust health; that she was sensitive, and is heart-broken over her that she was sensitive, and is heart-broken over her disgrace. Where were all the organized charities of Chicago at this critical moment? If the news should come up from the south that some sooty wench had been thrown into prison for a debt of $23, there are at least four leading newspapers in Chicago whose columns would scintilate with indigration, and each of them would offer to receive subscriptions in aid of the sufferer. The fertilizer laws of Georgia, now in force, require manufacturers of fertilizers to print upon every bag they sell in the state, the analysis or percentage of valuable elements which they guarante the fertilizer to contain.

This guaranteed analysis indicates clearly the number of pounds of each element to be contained in every ton of the fertilizer. They are also required to pay a fee of fifty cents per ton to cover the expeuse of sampling their fertilizers and having the samples analyzed by the state chemist to see if they come up to their guaranty and the standard which the law requires. If the analysis of the state chemist shows that they do not come up to the standard they are condemned and not allowed to be sold in the state, or if sold before they are analyzed, the sale is null and void and entirely non-collectable, the failure of consideration being cleanly provided for by the existing law. If the manufacturer really furnishes in his fertilizers the full number of pounds of the valuable elements required by his guaranty and the legal standard of the state, certainly no more can be required of thm and no failure of consideration on his part is possible.

One effect of the Brady bill, if it becomes a law, will be to impose upon she tortilizer manufacturer. pense of sampling their fertilizers and having the

Such a guaranty would be to insure the farmer against the improper use of fertilizers by his hands, against bad seed, frost, hall, bad stands, lice, rust, blight sore shin, floods of rain, grass and weeds, drought, bad cultivation, lazy negroes, and other contingencies too numerous to mention. The law would be a premium to dishonesty, and a mischlevous incentive to inligation to evade the payment of just debts.

The above will be one effect of the Brady, bill, it passed in its present shape. Another effect will undoubtedly be to abolish all time sales of fertilizers in Geograf and put the trade strictly on a fertilizers in Georgia and put the trade strictly on a cash basis, a result which will probably suit the manufacturers of fertilizers better than it will the farmers.

Minneapolis, Minn., August 2.—General
Thomas L. Rosser, the ex-confederate cavalry general, whose recent speech in Maryland was criticised so generally in the north, is in Minneapolis.

"Yes, I suppose my Minneapolis friends criticis the speech I was reported to have made in common with the people of the north generally," remarked the general to a reporter. "But I was very badly misquoted. The first speech was male to a body of confederate friends at the time of the Chandler and Black-way fight in the server. "The president has not devolved any special polley towards the south. He is not turning out the officeholders there very fast. We are in a state of expectancy in this respect. getting easy and comfort An Issue Sharply Defined.

From the New York Sun. It is sometimes argued that free trade is impossible in this country, because the support of the government, the maintenance of the army and navy, the payment of the public debt, and the payment of pensions require annually a great sum o money, and this money, it has been fancied, can only, be provided by duties on imports or by direct taxation levied upon the several states.

This view of the question is mistaken. It is perfectly easy to provide the necessary revenue by means of that system known as the internal revenue system, with which we have become familiar during the last twenty-five years. It is properly speaking, an excise system, and it can easily be made to produce all the revenue that is necessary for the needs of the government economally administered.

Thus all duties upon foreign importations may at once be abolished, and the United States may be brought to the enjoyment of perfect free trade with all foreign nations whatever. The custom houses may be shut up and every product of every other country may be admitted free of duty.

It is for the people to determine which of these two systems they will have. If they wish for free trade, they can repeal the tariff and rely upon the internal revenue; and, as we have said, it can easily supply all the needs of the government. If they do not wish for free trade, then they will be obliged either to abolish the internal revenue system and to agree with Thomas, lefferson that it is an informal agree with Thomas Jefferson that it is an infernal vstem; or else they will have to reduce it so greatly that its abolition will be a question of comparative Free trade is now within the reach of the American people, if they desire it. Do they?

Nowhere else than in delicate vines and foliage. Nowhere else than in Griffin could the material for such a beautiful dis-play be found, and hardly anybody else than the donors could have so beautifully arranged it.

Cremation Usually Kills.

From the Nashville American A correspondent of the New York papers, discussing the question of executing criminals by electricity, suggests that the criminal be first shocked and then hanged. His idea is that if the man was not killed by the shock he would at least be rendered insensible and consequently he migh be sirangled to death without ever suspecting that he was not already a corpse. To make the thing sure the body might be cremated. There is no record of a thorough cremation failing to produce death.

American Reporters in London.

The report that Mr. Willis B. Hawkins has left the Washington Post to do editorial work for Mr. Bennett's London paper proves to be untrue. A letter from the gentleman assures us that he has no intention of abandoning the position he has held so handsomely at the national capital. It is true, however, that Mr. Bennett is making an effort to recruit his London editorial staff from the ranks of American newspaper men. American reporters are paid $50 a week in London and native reporters are paid $15 a week.

A flash of lightning killed one man and injured several others on Garibaldi street, near the East Tennessee shops, yesterday.

The men were working on a frame cottage, and the accident happened just a few minutes before dinear time.

before dinner time.

Buck Henderson, a negro carpenter, was instantly killed and Jlm Lemmons, another carpenter, had his right arm temporarily para-lyzed. These were the only ones seriously it jured, but several others received severe shocks. Henderson and Lemmons were on top of the building laying joist, one being at either end of the timbers. When the accident occurred the timbers. both were standing on the outside edges of the building, in the act of adjusting a joist.

head, tearing his hat in shreds. It passed down the side of his face, around the front of the neck, and off at the side of his breast. The course of the shock was plainly visible, the skin being torn very much, the marks looking as if they had been made by some sort of blunt instrument.

LEMMONS ALL RIGHT

JUDGE GUERRY IT IS.

THE ELECTION FOR THE PATAULA CIRCUIT JUDGESHIP

Results in the Election of Terrell County's Favorite Son—The Details of the Election—The Vote as It Stood—Other Notes and Reflections.

Judge Guerry it is.

Hon. James H. Guerry, of Terrell, judge of the Pataula circuit.

It was genrally conceded yesterday morning that this would be the ultimate result. The speculation was confined to figures on the majority and on the number of ballots.

Judge Guerry's friends claimed confidently that their candidate would be elected by a handsone majority on the first ballot.

me majority on the first ballot. Judge Harrison's friends were in excellen fighting trim and spirits, and claimed that if the Powell vote reached thirty, as it probably would, Judge Guerry's election on the first ballot was an impossibility. "And," concluded an enthusiastic, Harrison man, "if there is no election on the first ballot, then Judge Harrison is the man."

But the first hellot settled it.

In Joint Session.

When the resolution providing for the joint session had been read, President duBignon announced that nominations were in order. "Mr. President," said the gentleman from Houston, Mr. Holtzclaw, "for judge of the Pataula circuit I nominate the Hon.-William Harrison, of the county of Quitman.' The nomination, which was received in si-lence, was seconded by Mr. Gordon, of

Then followed other seconds by Messrs. Lawson of Putnam, Tigner of Muscogee, Johnson of Floyd and Calvin of Richmond.

When these gentlemen had all taken pleasure in seconding Mr. Harrison's nomination, Mr. Harper of Carroll, arose and nominated the Hon. R. H. Powell, of Early. This nomination was seconded by Senator Sanford, and Mr. Skelton, of Hart.

Then Senator Wooten, of Albany, arose. "Mr. President," said he, "I take pleasure in nominating that distinguished jurist, the Hon. James H. Guerry, of Terrell.

This was greeted by a burst of applause, and This was greeted by a burst of applicates, and Mr. Bell, of Forsyth, arose and said: "I take pleasure in seconding the nomination of the Hon. Jim Guerry."

Then came seconds by Messrs. Bush of Miller, Clifton of Chatham, Simmons of Sumter, Harrell of Decatur, Phil Davis of Elbert, and Hooks of Lee.

The roll call was begun—the list of the senate being called first.

There are 217 members in the general assem-bly, and 190 of them answered to the roll call yesterday.

Judge Guerry lead from the start, though Judge Guerry lead from the start, though for two or three minutes it looked like a very close race between him and Judge Harrison. Gradually the lead increased, and the question was then—could the Powell vote, solid, give Harrison more votes than Guerry?

Until nearly fifty votes had been cast the combined opposition to Guerry was a vote or two larger than the Guerry vote, but after this Judge Guerry summed up a majority and his-load steadily increased.

Guerry, 105.

Guerry, 105.

Harrison, 63.

Powell, 22.

That was the vote.

Judge Guerry was declared elected, and the result greeted with applause.

Upon motion of Colonel Jones, of Baker, the joint session was dissolved. int session was dissolved.

the joint session was dissolved.

THE OATH OF OFFICE TAKEN.

Shortly after Judge Guerry was notified of his election he took the oath in the presence of Governor Gordon and a few other gentlemen. Judge Querry will leave for home this morning. He will hold his first court two weeks from next Monday.

om next Monday.

He is well and favorably known throughou Georgia, having made an enviable reputation in his legislative career. "Not that we love Harrison less, but we love Guerry more," was the sentiment of the Guerry men.

Colonel Powell, while his vote was not as great as some of his friends had hoped, is well known and popular—a man of unquestioned

And of Judge Guerry-the members of the legislature have reason to be proud of their se-lection. No young man in Georgia is abler and no man is better qualified for the impor tant position to which he has been chosen. A lawyer of excellent reputation, he possesses in a high degree those other qualities in a just and upright judge.

And the Pataula judgeship is settled. About the Election.

A noticeable feature of the race and election as been the absence of all harsbness and ill eling. All three gentlemen are well known, and a friend of one—nine times out of ten—was a ftiend of the other two. There was no room for bitterness in a race like that.

There was a comfortable feeling amongst the legislators, on the other hand, that no mistake could be made in a choice amongst the candidates. Judge Harrison is one of the purest and ablest jurists in the state, and is fitted in every respect for the place.

He called Sam's attention to the pump, pointed to a large tin bucket, and asked him to go over and draw some fresh water. Sam wen across the street, placed the bucket in position and began turning the crank. He turned and turned, then he stopped and looked into the pump. Seeing began turning the crank. He turned and turned, then he stopped and looked into the pump. Seeing the chain going round, he went back to his work. The sweat rolled off his face a big drops, but still he kept on. At last the lookers on could stand it no longer, and the laugh came. Sam realized he had been made a victim to Mr. Reynolds's wit. He strode into the office with the bucket, threw it into one corner, said, "Them tricks makes me mad," and walked out. He has not returned.

AN ABLE-BODIED BEGGAR.

Man Tries the Charity Racket on Atlanta Citizens.

D. McMillan was bound over to the courts yesterday for disorderly conduct.

McMillan's is a peculiar case.

He lived with his wife out on Leonard street, at the old barracks, and for some time he has been drinking heavily.

Being out of money and employment he bit upon a scheme for obtaining a livelihood that was novel a scheme for obtaining a livelihood that was novel and interesting.

He first went to some of the neighbors and told a pitful tale that his wife was dead and he needed money to pay for her burial. He rereved considerable assistance from kind-hearted people. His next schome was that his son had got his leg broken, and on this he got a good deal of help. His third tale was that his old family servant, an aged negross, was dead, and this worked like a charm.

A Youthful Burglar

Cliff Farris, one of the youthful burglars who went into Falvey's store and were arrested and escaped from jail, was recaptured by Call Officer Hamilton yesterday. He says they escaped from jail by crawling through a sewer pipe that is hardly more than eight inches in diameter. Julius Bone is up near Knoxville, Tenn., and does not know how toget back home. Cliff was perfectly contented and smoked a cigarette while being locked up.

A PITIABLE CASE.

Charity. "My poor blind baby!"

"My poor blind baby!"

A sorrowing mother sobbed out these words as she left the Woman's Christian association home, on Peters street, resterday afternoon.

It was Mra. Sweet, an honest, hard-working widow, whose husband died in Atlania some time ago, leaving her with a little four-year-old girl and a blind hoy baby a few months old. She went to Chattanoga to relatives where she hoped to obtain employment.

Disappointed there she returned to Atlania, and about two weeks ago became an inmate of the home.

about two weeks ago became an inmate of the home.

She was there only a short time when she secured a polition as cook and homekeepeer with a family, but to add to her troubles her baby developed a skin or blood disease which the physicians is charge pronounced incurable. For fear of contamination the ladits who manage the home ordered the poor mother to take the child away.

There is no hospital in Atlanta except those run by private persons, and the unfortunate woman was at her wit's end. Warden Hunter was applied to yesterday evening and set about securing admitsion for the little one into some private nospital.

But before he had an oppoflutive to attend to the matter, the mother was forced to take the child away, and she is now on the mercy of the charitable portion of the community.

The little girl is a bright and cheerful, but is unfortunately afflicted as above stated.

Warden Hunter is doing all he can in the matter but this is another instance that well-flustrates the crying need of some public hospital or infirmary, where the suffering poor can find relief.

And the woman and her children are deserving objects of real, straight out charity.

A number of gentlemen were sitting in front of the Markham house yesterday morning when they suddenly realized that they were wanted badly. With one accord they moved into the house, into the street and up the poles which support the front shed. They left their papers and cigars behind them. The cause of the general scattering was a horse attached to a buggy who preferred the side-walk to the street to run away on. After the animal was stopped near the Georgia freight depot the gentlemen resumed their scats and asked "Who was scared?" Markham House.

A new phase of the city extension was developed yesterday.

Although the gentlemen from the suburbs have frequently said in the discussion of the extension amendment that Atlants wanted the earth, it was not thought that the earth would be freely offered to her so soon.

Nevertheless it seems probable that she will get all the territory her heart could wish.

Now, that the suburband people are about convinced that it is to their interest to come in they are disposed to bring all their friends with them, from the Delkalb county line to the Chattahoochee river. the Chattah

This would be an extension in the east of a little over a half mile instead of a quarter, and would take in about all of Edgewood, including the Moreland Park academy.

On the other hand, Mr. J. D. Collins

Senator Rice, who is chairman of the committee on corporations, says he, as a commit-teeman, will not advance an amendment to the city's bill, but if the city and the people in the territory agree to it he would be for taking in as much as they desire, as it will be easier to extend now than it will ever be again. He thinks this will be the sense of the other members of the committee.

A heated discussion over the amendment giving the city council discrimination against convict labor in the award of contracts occurred in the committee yesterday afternoon, between Judge John L. Hopkins, attorney for the Chattahoochee Brick company, and City Attorney Goodwin and Assistant Attornev Pendleton.

This is the last of the discussion, and the committee will act on the bill by next

Said committee shall ascertain the price the United States authorities offer to pay for the use of the lower floor of the old capitol building for one year, and the said committee shall report at an early day.

The senate received a message from the governor and immediately went into executive session. The nomination conveyed in the message was deferred on account of the absence of the senator from the district in which the judge was appointed.

At the close of the executive session the senate adjourned till Monday morning at eleven o'clock.

The LaGrange people want the Macon and Birmingham railroad to pass through LaGrange. That was the design of the original charter granted by the legislature. A delegation of prominent citizens from Columbus have been in Atlanta for two or three days, and aided by their representatives, secured yesterday a unanimous committee report in favor of their Mobile and Girard railroad bill.

"A paragraph in an evening pape"," said a prominent legislator last night, "contains an unwarranted reflection on the members of the Olive bill sub-committee. Of course no members of that committee ever made the statement attributed to them; that goes without saying. The statement was made there that-"it is stated by a member of that (sub) committee that unless the lobyi-ts make some change in the opinious of the members the bill will be reported favorably by a vote of 4 to 2. Such a statement is not only unwarranted, but the insinuation about the lobby is a direct reflection upon the members of the committee, I suppose those gentlemen will not notice the newspaper statement—it would be beneath their dignity to do so; but I feel that such reflections as that should not go unrebuked. The members of the committee are amply able to express their own opinions and make their own report, and I am sure they will do so without fear or favor." "A paragraph in an evening paper," said

The Okefenokee Swamp. From the Waveross Headlight.

The bill introduced in the legislature by our senator, Dr. F. C. Folks, to incorporate the Okefe-nokee Land and Drainage company, and to author-ize the governor to sell to said company the lands in said swamp, in consideration of the benefits which will accuse to the state and people from the drainage and reclamation of the same, as well as for the price of 12½ cents per acre to be paid by said company to the state for said lands, is attracting considerable attention. There is no question but what the passage of said bill would prove a great blessing to the people of all our section, and for that reason we heartily havor its passage. To pay the state 12½ cents per acre for the land, and then spend several hundred thousand dollars for the drainage and reclamation of the swamp, would be giving all for it that it is worth, and more too, for it is now practically worthless, and its value after drainage very questionable. But Ware and other countries embracing all the surrounding country would be greatly benefitted, and if the legislature passes said bill and the state, can close out her old useless swamp on the terms proposed, it had better be done drainage and reclamation of the same, as well as

PHONOGRAPHS PHONOGRAPHS

And Phonograph Graphophones.

With our chief office in Atlanta we are now prespared to lease the above, wonderful inventions of Edison, Bell and Taintor, by which all sounds are engraved on a small cylinder, that may be preserved indefinitely, and reproduced at will.

For lawyers and business men, at their homes or offices, it is a mechanical stenographer always at command. The cylinder, if the instrument be used at home, can be brought or forwarded to the user's office, and there transcribed by a typewriter or by "long hand."

Music, vocal and instrumental, is faithfully and accurately recorded and reproduced. The instrument is so simple that a few minutes' instruction will enable any one to use it.

We cordially invite all parties interested to call at our office, No. 43 Walton street, corner of Fairlie, and inspect the machines at their pleasure. Telephone No. 627. GEORGIA PHONOGRAPH CO.

Stocks as Reported at the New York Stock

NEW YORK, August 2.—Business at the stock exchange still continues to decrease and transactions to lay were the smallest of the year, while flucutions in most of the stocks were in few cases for the than ¼ of 1 per cent. Almost all the news s of a favorable nature, but there was no disposition to buy upon that account, and as bears were equally inactive dullness was the only marked fea-ture. Trusts, however, did show some animation, and with Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis, Chesapeake and Ohio, Reading and the leading grangers, turnished all the interest there was in operations of the day. The statement was published that the sugar trust had made a large amount of money and had about $25,000,000 on hand, part of which would probably be used in retiring some of the white the large statement of the probably because the remarked the second of the statement of which would probably be used in terring some of the outstanding certificates and the remainder dis-tributed among the shareholders. This had the effect of stimulating buying of that stock and the improvement started at the opening continued until a rise of 3 per cent had been made. A portion of a rise of 3 per cent had been made. A portion of this was lost upon the realizing of the last hour, but a substantial gain was scored for the day. Other trusts sympathized and Southern Cotton Oil moved up materially. Among the stocks of the regular list Chesapeake and Oilo was again prominent and first preferred rose sharply. Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis common was active but moved within narrow limits. Grangers were helped by accounts of crops along those lines, and Reading by the return of borrowed stock, indicating a reduction of the short interest. The market rose steadily well-into the afternoon, when money was steadily well, into the afternoon, when money was bid up to six per cent and realizations caused some had up to six per cent and realizations caused some šetback. NEW YORK, August 2.—(Special.)—Henry Clews & Co.'s circular on the cotton market today says: The fact that very few notices have been issued for NEW YORK, August 2.—[Special.]—Henry Clews

A Co.'s circular on the cotton market today says:
The fact that very few notices have been issued for delivery on August contracts has again brought this month to the front as a desirable speculative option, and consequently the interest in the market has centered in this manipulated deal. If it is the object to make a corner but little has developed to inspire belief in its accomplishment, for the market the greater part of the time has been very dull, and no aggressive spirit has been shown by the buils.
There was apparently considerable short interest, but when it has been desired to do so no difficulty has been experienced in covering without exciting the market. There was an advance of 162 points, but it was mainly due to the strength of spot cotton, which is firmly held, and the better grades bring full quotations. The highest quotation of the week was touched yesterday, but the advance brought out a plenty as sellers, and since this time the greatest strength has been shown in the next crop. The south continues to sell the late months on good crop prospects, while the foreign element is huving with the away feedow that her sweaters on good crop prospects, while the foreign element is buying with the same freedom that has marked their transactions for some time past. There is no especial speculative significance to be attached to this, for the purchases are evidently made against their sales abroad. Spots quiet and firm. Sales 681 bales today at unchanged prices: middling 11 5-16c.

NEW ORLEANS, August 2—(Special.)—Glenny & Violett, in their cotton circular today, say; Liverpool closes steady at 1-64d better, and will not reopen until Tuesday. New York closes lower on August, and one point better on the other months. New Orleans closes unchanged from last night. The markets are likely to change but little until Tuesday. Galveston received two new bales today, and New Orleans was reported to have received one, but it was a mistake. While crop conditions are generally favorable, it is later than last year. F. o. b. cotton continues in good demand, with but little offering, as the country seems timid about selling ahead.

Spots here are steady; sales 760 bales; middling 11c. Spots here are steady; sales 700 bales; middling 11c.

GLENNY & VIOLETT. NEW YORK, August 2—The following is the New York Sun's cotton review: Futures advanced slight-ly, but trading was small and the market unfuler-esting. The Germans and Greeks bought new crop ontions to some extent. Light local rains were reported from the south. No damage damage is claimed, and from Texas advices today were especially favorable. Cotton on the spot was quiet but firm.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, August 2—A duliness and weakness settled like a pall over the wheat pit this morning.

For nearly two hours December seesawed between 789467874c, occasionally touching 79c. The taking of fourteen boat loads here for export steadied the market a little temporarily, but the closing prices were within small fraction of the bottom for all fatures, and 3461146 below those yesterday. A good many prominent operators are preparing to take futures, and %@1½c below those yesterday. A good many prominent operators are preparing to take their summer vacations, and the outlook is for a narrow market for some time to come.

A fair business was reported in corn, the pit being active at times, ruling firm early and easier as the session advanced. The market opened at about yesterday's closing prices, was steady for a time, but soon sold off ½c, became more quiet and closed ½@½c lower than yesterday.

In oats trading was active and more general than for any day for a long time. The weakness and decline in wheat had a weakening effect and prices

d %@1/c, and the market closed tame at

The lard market showed considerable strength early in the day, but trading was only moderate. An advance of 23.65 c was gained and prices ruled irregular within range. Towards the close the feeling was easy and the market closed quiet at inside figures.

Prices in shori ribs ruldd somewhat irregular within a range of 21/65c early, but the market finally weakened and prices declined 121/615c. Toward the close the feeling was steadler, and prices rallied slightly, closing rather quiet.

A BURGLAR'S STORY.

HOW THE VITTUR ROBBERY WAS ACCOMPLISHED,

Henry Clark Says That He Did the Work Aland Persists in Exonerating the Other Two Men, Who Are Out on Bond.

"I alone am to blame; I committed the obbery myself," said Henry Clark yesterday. He persisted in exonerating Gordon Parker ad Milco Wrinckley, who were arrested with at Lexington.

Inny then went on to tell the story of the bery. He said that he entered the build-through the skylight, and that he reached roof by going up the stairway of the build-ttur's place is a one-story brick building and the robber swung himself down from a second-story window of the adjoining building to the roof of Vittur's and raised the skylight.

He had provided himself with a rope, which he tied to the window guards, and let himself down to the floor of Vittur's store. He then went back and opened the reardoor, so that he could get in and out at pleasure.

To keep from being betrayed by the rope, he reascended to the roof and untied the rope, went back through the window of the other building and descended the stairs. He passed a man and woman on the stairs,

At the foot of the stairs he encountered a

He had the rope bound around his body and was concealed in the waistband of his pants. As he stepped on to the pavement the policeman passed him, and ne knew the officer, who was Patrolman Brooks.

"Howdy do, cap," remarked the officer.
"Howdy do," answered the robber in an unconcerned way, and passed on. He reached an alley and threw the rope away, and then he went back through a vacant lot on Broad and entered Vittur's place from the rear. He gathered up as many of the knives and razors from the show case and shelves as he desired; and wrapping them in two hand-kerchiefs and tying them around his waist, walked out and went down toward the railroad.

He met another policeman on his way, whom he described as a big fat man. The officer walked toward him, but he never halted and was not molested.

and was not molested.

He had spent an hour in Vittur's place, and it was getting late. He had already arranged with some railroad man, whose name he refused to give, for passage to Chattanooga; and he was soon rolling away toward the west.

At Chattanooga he remained a day or twe, sold seven knives and twelve razors; and then he went to Oakdale, Kentucky, where he made a halt.

made a halt.

His next point was Lexington where he sold fourteen razors and seven knives. He met Parker and Wrinckley at Oakedale, who said they had run away from Atlanta because the police were after them for crap

That is the story as Henry Clark tells it, and he insists that the others were in no way implicated.

Yesterday the three men were carried before Judge Manning and placed under $500 bond each, which Parker and Wrinckley gave, but Clark was unable to do so.
Special Detectives William Colbert and Mike Burke, who brought the prisoners home, were taken charge of by Chief Connolly, who saw that they were well cared for during their stay in the city.

in the city.

Mr. Charles Viltur, who was the sufferer

Mr. Charles Viltur, who was the sufferer by the burglary, was profuse in his thanks to the officers in their work, and congratulated the Atlanta department for the promptitude with which the men were arrested and brought back.

He doubts Clark's statement in regard to the amount of goods stolen. There were about sixty razors and fifteen or twenty pocket knives found in the possession of the robbers, and these are all that can be accounted for, except the nineteen knives and twenty-one razors that Clark says he sold.

the nineteen knives and twenty-one razors that Clark says he sold.

Mr. Vittur says the goods recovered are not worth more than $1.50 at the outside, and he is confident that the goods stolen were worth much more than that.

The expenses of capturing the thieves will amount to a considerable sum, over $300, and there was a great deal of comment made yesterday on the smallness of the bond required.

Mr. Vittur went to work and had Clark's bond increased to $1,000 yesterday afternoon, and made a pretty thorough investigation of the securities on the others.

Clark was sent to jail yesterday evening.

My face, head and shoulders were a mass of corruption, and finally the disease began eating my skull boues. My bones ached; my kidneys were deranged. I lost fiesh and strength, and life became a burden. All said I must surely die, nevertheless, when I had used ten bottles of B. B. I. I was pronounced well. Hundreds of scars can now be seen on me. Has been run out of the market quotations, but not out of the market. On July 19th we unloaded a car load of "Elegant," and before the sun went down it was all distributed-then not enough to meet half the demand. Prominence in the market report was a strong indorsement, but a more effective one is the consumers' verdict-"'Postel's Elegant' flour is the best we can find and we will have no other, if it can be had." This explains the small excess in price-it takes every cent of the price to produce the superior qualities of "Elegant," which lovers of good eating are rapidly finding out. Just as soon as the weather clears up so the new wheat crop can be moved, the Postel Mill Company will start both their large mills, and be able to supply this market all their grades in sufficient quantity to meet the increasing demand. We can furnish these goods to mercants in small quantities from our store or in car load lots shipped direct from the mill.

THROUGH THE CITY HALL. MAYOR PRO TEM HEMPHILL RE-DUCES A FINE.

Hon. W. A. Hemphill, mayor protem, walk into the chief executive's office every morning with an ease and grace of one thoroughly at

And he is thoroughly at home.

When Mayor Glenn went away he gave Miss Jackson, his private secretary, a leave of absence, and Mayor Pro Tem Hemphill found himself his own clerk when he dropped into he mayor's chair.

He always signs his name to checks himself.
Day after day he has placed his autograph at the foot of checks handed him by Comptroller Goldsmith and discharged such other duties as fell to his lot. On yesterday he was petitioned to reduce the fine of George E. A. Coldecott, who was recently convicted in police court of wife beating. Coldecott was tried before Judge Anderson, and fined $25.75. The petition for his pardon was accompanied by statements which induced Mayor Pro Tem. Hemphill to reduce the fine

On the 25th of July Joe Backus was sentenced to fifteen days on the streets. Pre-vious to that he had been given twenty days' service, which he had not rendered. Yester-day Mayor Pro Tem. Hemphill was asked to substitute a fine for the service, and, after hearing the reasons for the petition, he commuted the sentences to a "money fine" of $20

The city clerk's office looks as neat and as bright as a new pin. Several days ago Clerk Woodward surrendered his apartments to the paper hanger and the carpenter, and the work for which he contracted is now done. The main office has the appearance of a banking house. A finely finished counter extends from one end of the room to the other. The counter is "mounted" with a wire screen. counter is "mounted" with a wire screen, through which a half dozen "port holes" have been opened. These are for the accommodation of those who have business with the office. Clerk Woodward's private office has been newly carpeted and beautifully papered. The old furniture has been replaced with new, and the new furniture is extremely appropriate. One piece, an invention of Mr. Charles Maddox, the deputy clerk, shows the arrangement of all the papers.

Marshal Loyd's quarters will be as handsome as any in the city hall by Monday. The painter's brush and the paper hanger's paste, hold full sway there today. The walls will

When the work is finished, the marshal's office will be a cozy place.

Comptroller Goldsmith issued checks yesterday covering the monthly pay rolls of the police and fire departments.

Use Gentleness.

Be gentle in stimulating the kidneys, otherwise you will excite and weaken them. The happlest results follow the use of Hostetter's Stomace Bitters to overcome renal inactivity. Avoid the unmedicated, fiery stimulants of commerce. The kidneys have a delicate membrane easily irritated, and upon this the action of such excitants is pernicious. Maiarial complaints, indigestion, rheumatism, neuralgia and biliousness succumb to the corrective in fluence of the Bitters.

Take all the children out to enjoy the superior attractions at Chautauqua and see the fine display of fireworks tonight. Do not let one child remain in Atlanta today, but carry them all out to Piedmont Chautauqua.

AN EMINENT GEORGIAN.

Ex-Senator Smith Talks on Matters of Inter-eat Through Georgia.

Ex-Senator James M. Smith, of Oglethorpe, has been interviewed at some length by the Atlanta correspondent of the Augusta Chronicle.

The senator's views are always interesting, and an interview with him makes mighty good reading. Here are some extracts from this particular talk: On being asked the present condition and future prospects of the farmers of his section, Colonel Smith said:

Smith said:

IMPROVED METHODS.

"The farmers have worked harder, stuck to business closes, bought less on credit and at lower prices than was ever known before. Such a policy is bound to produce good results, not only so far as they of my section are concerned, but the whole people of the state will be vastly benefitted."

"What led to this policy?" asked the correspondent.

"What led to this policy?" asked the correspondent.

"For soveral years past crops have been short and farming has not paid. Necessity being the mother of invention and the farmers seeing impending rulin near at hand, determined to make one more heroic effort to better their condition. The agitations of many matters directly affecting the farmer by the alliance linduced the farmers to think more seriously and intelligently of their condition than ever before. If the farmers would live inside their income and practice half the economy that prevailed rifty years ago, their is no reason why they should not become as independent as they were in times past. Before the war the farmers owned the raliroads, the banks and the factories and coaned the merchants money. After the war all of this was changed. The farmers now owe the merchants and the merchants ove the banks. There is no good reason why this should be so. It is much easier to make a living now than it was fifty years ago. The necessaries of life are fifty per cent cheaper and labor is one hundred per cent higher than it was, so it follows that a day's labor is now from three to four times more beneficial to the laborer and his family than it was fifty years ago. I think the country is beginning to see the situation in this family than it was fifty years ago. I think the country is beginning to see the situation in this light, and the encouraging prospect is thus accounted for."

STATE ROAD LEASE.

"Well, to introduce politics, colonel, what do you think about the bill to lease the state road, and the question of betterments, now pending before the legislature?" asked the correspondent.

"I have given the subject but little thought, but from what I gather from the newspapers it is my judgment that it would be good policy on the part of the present legislature to effect a compromise with the lessees. Of course, the rights and interests of the istate ought to be well protected by any compromise that might be entered into. It would also be to the interest of the lessees to compromise, any intricate legal questions will apring up. The present legislature is not responsible for any mistakes or errors committed in the original lease act. The original lease act ought to have been more explicit and definite. The people of Georgia are willing to do justice to the lessees, whether they be the Louisville and Nashville company or her own citizens. Whether the lessees have made or lost money is not the question. It is agreed on all hands that the road is now in much better condition. Among other things the lease act stipulated that the road should be returned to the state in as good condition (not better) as it was when leased. As to what portion of the improvements put on the road by the lessees is movable or what immovable depends upon the law applicable to such cases. The question ought not to be discussed nor decided from a political stand point, but on business principles founded on justice and equity. The people of the lessees might occur by stipulating to the state in as quabble with both the present lesses and the future lessees might occur by stipulating to turn over the road to the next legislature to take any advantage of the lessees of the legislature of the equipments put on the road by the lessees in as good condition as it now i
